ANNUAL CAMP AT TAHOE

Approximately 150 Members Of 4-H Clubs And Farm Bureau To Share Outing

Approximately 150 members and friends of the county Farm Bureau and 4-H Clubs go to the county campground at the south end of Lake Tahoe this weekend for the fifth annual joint over-night camp of the two organizations.

The weekend program will open Saturday afternoon shortly after two o'clock, when all participants are expected to be in camp, and will conclude with the noon meal on Sunday. The Rescue Center participants, numbering about forty, have made their usual plans to extend the outing for several days and will remain in camp until Wednesday.

Roy Marks is camp director with Fred Wessels in charge of the Saturday evening campfire program at which the various Farm Centers and 4-H Clubs will each present a stunt.

Mrs. Clara Rank is the camp treasurer and Max Bollman is in charge of arranging several short trips from the camp to points of interest in the vicinity.

George H. Volz is chairman for camp games, first aid will be in the care of E. W. Zueger, Bill Parker is the camp lifeguard, and Edwin F. Smith is in charge of transportation of luggage to the camp.

Mr. Marks reports that F. Norman Celio, of Meyers Station, has agreed to provide wood for cooking and that the wood for the campfire will be provided through the courtesy of Eldorado National Forest, which is in charge of the county campground.

"In this connection," Mr. Marks said, "it is probably too well known to require anything to be said about it, but lest someone forget, every car must be equipped with a shovel and axe. This is a Forest Service regulation and a point we must all remember."

The Saturday evening meal will include a community hot dish, prepared under the supervision of Mrs. Mary Cannon.

Derby May Be On Main Street

Committee Will Ask Permit Of Council; Wheels For Racers Stir Discussion

Possibility that the Soapbox Derby, to be held July 7th, previously held on Sacramento Hill, may be run this year on Main Street, was seen during the week as members of the committee in charge announced they will ask permission of the city council to use Main Street for the race.

Although the length of the course has not been designated, it was indicated the race would begin at the courthouse with the course running westerly, to the bell tower or beyond.

While the committee considered this matter, several of the entries in the race reported they have completed their racers and there was much discussion among the boys who have entered the race as to the respective merits of various types of wheels for the racers.

A. H. Murray announced Wednesday afternoon that he has received a shipment of wheels for the derby racers. These include the four wheels and the two axles. The boys build their own front end assembly.

The arrival of the wheels started the discussion about "which is the best," and the derby committee announced that all wheels are good and that there have been no recognized tests of any particular make of wheel and one make is as good as another.

Report "Fifth Column" Suspicions To Authorities, Avoid "Groundless Rumor"

(Reprinted from "Dry Diggin's" in The Mountain Democrat.)

IF YOU will refer to your dictionary, you may be astonished to learn that a "gossip" may be a friend and may also be an enemy.

The word "gossip" may be used as the term designating the sponsor of a person at a baptism, or may be used as the term designating "a friend or comrade, a companion; a familiar and customary acquaintance."

The word "gossip" may be used also as the term designating "one who runs from house to house or goes about tattling; an idle tattler; a news-monger" and, further, "gossip" is "idle talk; groundless rumor."

Gossip, someone reminds us, may be like unto a two-edged sword.

THE WRITER has no connection with any federal agency and does not pretend in any way to speak for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, nor for the military intelligence.

The writer does not know what these agencies may be doing. His experience in news work has been that when Uncle Sam has work to do, he does it without asking anybody much about it and newspaper men and the public generally find out about it when it's done.

SO THE writer does not know any more than you do whether there is any so-called "fifth column" activity in El Dorado County or not.

One thing the writer does know: If he knew or suspected that he knew of any "fifth column" activity in the county, he wouldn't run around gossiping about it—making "idle talk" based on "groundless rumor."

HE'D KEEP still about it because he is not competent to judge whether anybody is a "fifth columnist" or not, and if he was competent to judge, what could he do about it? Nothing! Positively nothing except run around making himself look silly.

Teacher Examinations Open On Monday

An examination to qualify applicants as teachers will be conducted Monday of the coming week at the school administration offices in the courthouse, it was announced Thursday by Kenneth W. McCoy, superintendent. Mr. McCoy said that at the present time there is a prospect of four parties taking the examination.

El Dorado County has a new post office and a new postmaster. The new office is at the "Y" at the south end of Lake Tahoe and has been designated "Tahoe Valley." The new postmaster is A. W. Lamson, who is in charge as effective June 12th.

Tom Addelman, "Tahoe Valley" residents will be interested to know, has qualified as a notary public.

Exhibition Softball Games Thursday

Directors of the county softball association announce that there will be two exhibition games this (Thursday) evening at Bennett Park. The games are extra attractions, not a part of the regular schedule, and a nominal admission will be charged.

In the first game, Ebe's, of Sacramento, will play the second team chosen in a recent vote by the fans. The second game will be between the McKinley A. C., of Sacramento, and the league's first team.

Regional Forester, Aide, On Eldorado Forest

S. B. Show, Regional Forester for the California Region of the Forest Service, and R. L. Deering, assistant regional forester, arrived Wednesday afternoon from San Francisco to spend several days on inspection on Eldorado Forest. They were accompanied on a tour of the forest by Supervisor Edwin F. Smith and Associate Forester A. N. Weber.

shouting "Joe Doakes is a fifth columnist!"

And if Uncle Sam stood by with his hands on his hips and said "So what?"—then what would be the next move?

THE WHOLE thing as it has been stirred up by gossip is silly. We've been running to the authorities for the past three weeks almost daily checking up on some wild tale about a "fifth columnist" and as far as we have been able to learn, there hasn't been one iota—not one single iota—of truth in any one of the reports. Some of the reports, in the light of investigation, have been proven to be downright lies.

NOW THAT isn't fair.

The promiscuous circulation of gossip—groundless rumor—about any individual may do him great harm. It may limit his social contacts, bring him personal insult and hurt his business—all undeservedly. If you think it doesn't, the writer can assure you that he knows of one instance where it has, all ready;—and as far as we know, and as far as the local authorities know, the man, a citizen of these United States, has done absolutely nothing to deserve such treatment.

AND SO, we suggest, that if you have reason to believe or suspect that anyone is making himself a party to a plot looking to the overthrow of the United States Government by force and violence, you should report it to the authorities. Report it to the FBI at San Francisco or to the United States District Attorney at San Francisco or to the sheriff or the chief of police.

And if there is any merit in the "tip," we do not suspect that Uncle Sam will overlook any bets. But don't go about shouting "He's a fifth columnist!" You might be wrong. You might be a party to doing an innocent party harm personally, socially and to his business.

ONCE AGAIN we have no connection with any law enforcement agency; neither federal, state, county or city. But we do have unlimited faith in their intention and in their ability to uphold the law and to handle any "fifth columnist."

Rearing Ponds May Be Stocked This Week

John A. Winkelman, chairman of the conservation committee of the chamber of commerce, reported Thursday that the stocking of trout rearing ponds built by the chamber of commerce and the Rod and Gun Club at Kyburz, Eagle Rock and Pyramid in the American River canyon, may be completed this week. According to John A. Winkelman, county sportsmen received Wednesday a shipment of 280 half-grown pheasants from rearing pens at Sacramento, which have been distributed to rearing pens in the county and will be released on attaining full growth. The birds came originally from the state farm at Yountville.

Mr. Winkelman has 100 of the birds at his ranch; 80 are at the C. A. Patterson ranch; 20 are at the L. A. Raffetto ranch; 20 at the Dr. W. A. Rantz ranch; 20 at the Andrew Marchini ranch and 30 at the Dick Nance place at Pilot Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Butler, of Placerville, are the parents of a daughter, Betty Ann, born on June 14.

LOVED TEACHER IS SUMMONED

Miss Sophia M. Veerkamp Succumbs Early Thursday At Capital City Hospital

The family early Thursday afternoon announced that funeral services will be held on Saturday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon from Memory Chapel. Interment will be at Coloma cemetery.

Miss Sophia Margaret Veerkamp, a daughter of Mrs. Sarah F. Veerkamp, of Gold Hill, and a former teacher in the schools of El Dorado County, passed away early Thursday at a hospital in Sacramento where she had been a patient for the past five months.

The arrangements for the funeral services are being concluded by the family with the assistance of Memory Chapel.

Miss Veerkamp, for approximately fifteen years past, had been a teacher in the public schools of North Sacramento. She had taught regularly during the past year until the mid-year holidays, and upon the resumption of classes following the holiday was compelled to give up her work owing to failing health after teaching three days.

During her several years of residence at Sacramento she had won many friends who share with her friends in El Dorado County in expressions of sympathy to the family, and of love and esteem for the memory of the deceased.

A native of Gold Hill, Miss Veerkamp attended El Dorado County schools and completed her teacher training in a college at Stockton. (Continued on Page Four)

To Replace "Honeymoon" Bridge

Here is an architect's drawing superimposed upon an actual photograph of Niagara Gorge showing how the new Rainbow Bridge will look when completed. The huge $4,000,000 arch span, longest of its kind in America, will measure 950 feet from the American to the Canadian side. Well above the mark of the highest ice-jams on record, the span will be safe from the tragedy which wrecked its predecessor.

Scouting

Seniors Hold Initiation
Dozens of interested bystanders were treated to a show on Tuesday night when the Senior Scouts of Troop 57 initiated a new member, Junior Wurth, into their organization. Wurth, dressed in a very short dress, was made to wheel a baby buggy from the Court House to the bell tower, at which point he was instructed to direct traffic. He functioned quite well as a stop sign, since his face turned the exact shade of red used for traffic signals whenever someone wished to be escorted across the street.
Our hero came to grief in front of the theater, when the egg he was rolling up the sidewalk "cracked under the strain." A paddle that was being used to "egg him on" met a similar fate.
Extending his vocal powers to the utmost, the victim rendered "Home on the Range," in a deep basso profundo, while the entire scene was enhanced by the spotlight which focused on the center of attraction—by courtesy of the police car. Despite the pleading of the audience for an encore, the soloist seized his cart and raced up the street at a speed that no baby carriage has been wheeled before or since!
Refreshments and a pledging ceremony at the home of Wilder Immel, Senior Scout Leader, with a short business meeting at which the possibilities of a camping trip were discussed, completed the evening.

When It's Tea For Two—

Homemade orange marmalade is one of the least expensive of all the list of jams and jellies and it is one which can be prepared at any season of the year. With the coming of spring, when the stores of preserves begin to look depleted, a fine new recipe for this old tea-time favorite will find a rousing welcome in many a household.
Such a recipe, which makes a delectable marmalade with a minimum of effort and a maximum of flavor—comes to us from California. Its special bouquet and goodness is produced by the addition of sweet, rich California Muscatel wine.
California Marmalade with Muscatel is a delicacy which virtually every American home can afford to enjoy. For the fruits used in this conserve are available everywhere at modest prices and so is the fine California wine which adds so much distinction to the home-made delicacy.

Raffles Garage Features Told

New Management Installs Additional Equipment To Insure Greater Service

C. C. Ross and E. C. Wiltse are calling attention this week of the improvements they have made and services and equipment added since taking over active management of the Raffles Garage the first part of May, this year, from Henry Lazarini.
Chief among the improvements is the opening of a new department for the testing of brakes and wheel alignment. More than $2,000 worth of new equipment in this and in the repair and motor tune-up departments of the business, have been installed recently, it was stated.

A complete automotive service is now offered. Day and night storage with service station service at night, during the summer months is afforded. The new Weaver brake and wheel alignment testing machine has been installed in the front part of the garage. ## CHAPTER I

MARCIA HOWARDS waited impatiently for the train to reach Stiptown. She had read her father's mysterious and tantalizing letter until she knew it by heart. It said that he hoped she had enjoyed her visit in New York and asked her to join him as soon as possible. He had something important to show her. So Marcia had started for Stiptown, which seemed an absurdly out of the way place after she had traveled eight hours and changed trains three times.

but there are only two more stations and the line ends at Stiptown, so you are bound to arrive soon.

"Thanks," said Marcia. "Don't mention it. If you happen to be going to Stiptown you might like to—Listen, would you mind if I took the seat next to you? It is so discouraging to talk to the back of your head."

Marcia laughed suddenly in spite of herself. "All right," she said. "You win." She turned toward him as he sat down, and she noticed that his hands were strong and capable his mouth wide and gay.

"My name is Larry Norton Doctor Norton," he said meekly. "Horse doctor?" Marcia asked with malicious innocence. "No," he answered seriously steps. Marcia stared after him a moment.

"Well," her father asked. "are you too tired?"

"No, I'm dying to see the place," she answered gaily.

THEY got into the car, and Howards started the engine. "It is on the extreme edge of the town," he explained. "Quite isolated."

Marcia nodded. When finally they stopped in front of a spiked iron gate, she drew in her breath sharply. The stone wall surrounding the grounds must have been twelve feet high.

"It looks very forbidding," she said slowly. "It keeps tramps out," her father answered cheerfully.

At the head of the stairs they faced a heavy steel door.

Now, she crossed her knees and, with a sigh, tried to concentrate on the hilly, autumn-yellow landscape slowly going by as the local train wheezed along.

"Don't lose hope," a voice from behind said unexpectedly. "You'll soon be there."

The voice was low and pleasantly masculine. Marcia turned her head slightly. "Be where?" she asked in a chilly tone.

"Wherever you are going. Oh please don't turn your back to me again. You have such a lovely profile."

Marcia stood up and faced the stranger. He arose also. She was tall for a girl, but he was much taller and he looked down at her with a pair of humorous gray eyes. "You are very impudent," she said stiffly.

"Yes," he agreed. "I am impudent, but I did not mean to be and—"

Marcia sat down abruptly to hide a smile. She liked the looks of him, and it is dangerous to feel so about strangers on trains.

Then he added with a grin. "I try to pretend I have a practice. So far I've had only one patient, a stranger in Stiptown named Howards."

Marcia drew in her breath sharply. "Not—not Brixton Howards?" Larry nodded, surprised.

"Why, yes, do you— Oh, you must be his daughter. He's told me about you."

"Yes," Marcia said impatiently. "But what is wrong with him?" "Oh, just cut his hand. Strange though—"

THE grinding of the brakes as the train jerked to a stop interrupted him. Marcia stood up hurriedly.

"Run along," said Larry. "I'll bring your bags."

Marcia flashed him a quick smile of thanks and a moment later was on the station platform and in her father's arms. "You look thin," Howards said critically.

They drove up a neglected, weed-grown drive which brought them in sight of the house. It was a rambling old building with a certain charm marred by heavy iron gratings on the windows. From the very first moment Marcia didn't like the house.

"Of course," Mr. Howards explained, opening the front door. "There are a lot of things to be done. There is some sort of a story connected with the place," he went on with a grin. "ghosts or something. I've always wanted to own a house with a ghost."

Marcia smiled. Then suddenly she frowned. "It's funny," she said slowly. "All the rooms have sliding doors."

"Oh, I'm having all that changed," said Mr. Howards. "Yes, but—"

Marcia didn't finish her sentence. They had come to the second floor now. At the head of the stairs was a heavy steel door—beyond it a long corridor on which opened many narrow rooms.

"The last owner was a crank of some sort," Howards explained. "I am having some of the partitions torn down— What is the matter, Marcia?" he broke off. "You look pale."

"It—it's a bit stuffy," she faltered. "But it wasn't. There had come over her a feeling that there had been evil in this house and that evil was still lurking!"

GRIZZLY FLAT

At the recent school election Mrs. Dell Meyer was elected to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. Lucy Leventon who did not "choose to run" again. Mrs. Leventon had been a school trustee and clerk of the board for so many years that she had lost track of the time. She is the mother of eight children, all of whom are grown and through school now.

While she was clerk in 1925 the school house burned with almost a total loss. She had to rebuild and equip. They now have a substantial building with metal roof. This year a sanitary drinking fountain and wash basin with running water was installed in the building. Mrs. Leventon still takes an active interest in the school and the community and her many friends wish to extend their thanks and appreciation for her many years of unselfish service.

The Mountain school closed on June 19th for a three-week vacation to open again on July 15th for the new term. The parents and friends gathered at the schoolhouse on the afternoon of June 19th to hear the program of songs, recitations and dialogues given by the pupils. Miss Margaret Morey accompanied the pupils on the piano which added much to the enjoyment of the numbers. After the program refreshments of cake and punch was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Vivian E. Watson and two sons left on Thursday for Oakland where they expect to visit relatives and friends for a short time. She will then go on to her old home near Redding, Shasta county, for a brief visit before returning for the opening of school on July 15th.

Dance Will Mark Hall Completion

Timberinos Of Camino Open New Building On Saturday Night

Ed Cook, president of the Camino Timberinos announced the first of the week that plans have been completed for the grand opening of the Timberinos' community hall at Camino Saturday night.

The gala program calls for an entire night of dancing and entertainment—from 9 p. m. when Eddie Meltz and his swing orchestra get under way "until dawn if folks want to stay that long," the organization president said.

During the supper hour the fun and hilarity will carry right on, when the entertainment will be taken over by the Happy Hayseeds, Radio entertainers of Stockton. From then until 3 a. m. Eddie Meltz' orchestra will continue. Following that hour if the dance fans still want to stay, the Happy Hayseeds will carry on until broad daylight.

It was announced by the committee, that in order to help make the opening of the Timberinos hall a big success, the Missouri Flat dance and the dance at Merryman's have been postponed. Ordinarily these two places hold dances every Saturday night, it was said, but will yield this week to help out the attendance at the Camino affair.

Mr. Cook said that the Timberinos appreciate the fine cooperative spirit shown by the Missouri Flat P. T. A. and Mr. and Mrs. James E. Merryman and that the "boys" wish to thank them wholeheartedly.

"The Camino Community Hall, just completed, we believe, has the largest full clear floor space of any hall in the county, being 60 by 80 feet," Mr. Cook said. "That will accommodate a lot of dancers and we hope they fill it up."

Red Cross Gets Dance Receipts

Hall And Music Donated And Admissions Go To War Relief Fund

This is an excellent opportunity for a demonstration of general public support of the War Relief Fund and it is the second public event of this nature recently held in the county.

France, defeated in war by Germany, must await the terms of an armistice with calmness, Henri Philippe Petain, marshal of France and premier in her darkest hour, told his people today.

Petaim addressed the French people by radio and said his heart, as a soldier's, was heavy to be compelled to ask Germany for terms. There was no alternative, he declared.

The defeat he attributed to too few allies, too few arms, too few men and finally to what he called the absence of the spirit of sacrifice since the victory of the World War.

London reported coincidentally that the British were trying to buy guns, tanks and other war supplies from Russia.
